

Life Partner

I am not going to judge my future, by misjudgments I may have made in the past.
I am going to trust that I have evolved and developed to where my intuition can guide me properly.

I put myself in complete trust in spirit that when the right woman or man to be in my life comes along, I will be shown that it is him or her and he or she will be shown that it is me. We will make the connection that we need to make.

I am now ready to have my choices narrowed down to that one perfect partner. She or he will be a blessing in my life and I will be in hers or his. Together we will be a powerful part in transforming the world.

I also ask spirit to step down and help create the situation for me..

If this is meant to be, then spirit will certainly point the way and it will all come together in a positive happy manner. Ask spirit to show him/her the link between the two of you that creates a blessing which will create everything the two of you will need. If he/she is meant to be in your life, then spirit will create a pathway for it all to come together.

It is not about the package, but what's inside the box. Not an either/or situation, as we stop worrying about the box and wrapping, as it will all naturally come together with the person that will be the greatest blessing and partner in your life. Naturally, the package will get thrown in the mix. So, we would not want to miss someone because they don't have blond/brown etc. hair. The best spiritual partner in life that is going to help both of us develop and grow.

The ideal is the perfect spiritual partner to feeding the energy for each other in your presence together is going to amp up the effect that you have in the world. Ask spirit to set up the greatest magnetism, the fastest draw and connection to that person when we are connecting to the essence, because the form is only transitory. What is desired is to connect to that essence that we have linked to before where we have made a decision before we even got in this body. So, I am going to make a connection. Getting around the physical form is in many ways, very important. Spirit will always find ways to make that physical form appealing. Because we are beings that are supposed to be going for the essence first. That's a part of our journey and what we are teaching others. The message is don't let the package get in the way of the contents. When we set the priorities for the contents, we get the whole shebang. So, it is just a matter of prioritizing our list. © 2007 James Whatley www.TheMessenger444.com
