

Spiritual Awareness

What is it anyway? The essential knowledge that we are spiritual beings in relationship to the true reality of an existence of a higher power, or energy that transcends space and time beyond our third dimensional senses. Think of it as an expansion of our senses—allowing our God-selves to have a voice in every interaction in our lives. This removes the historic and traditional s-e-p-a-r-a-t-e-n-e-s-s thinking that governs most lives. Truly, we are individualized units of supreme Consciousness. The vibration of the power of Consciousness is Om—when chanted, gives us the at-tunement to supreme Consciousness. Otherwise, the ego gives us an illusional sense of selfhood that identifies with characteristics of mental, emotional and physical senses.

What happens when I open up my Spiritual Awareness? Much like using one's peripheral vision, the spiritual focus allows the free-flow of the creative power of imagination or energies from supreme Consciousness, to fully interact or interpolate into every aspect in our lives. Using the spiritual vision (a room in your head) consciously, gives us the ability to live freely and enjoyably with all desires fulfilled. Of course, there's a responsibility that comes with Spiritual Awareness. As each plateau is reached in our awareness, our sense of the highest good prevails since we know that there is always a consequence of every action or interaction with others which becomes faster with each plateau or level reached. When one knows that their actions may negatively affect an event or person, the speed or rate of consequence is relative to their level of Spiritual Awareness. “Yes!” Says the creator—but there's consequences!

Our life changes dramatically when we become more aware. There's a sense of responsibility that is a constant companion in every nuance of our thinking (the reasoning mind) and the knowing of our super-conscious God-self. We'll see others in a totally different way—spiritual beings on their path, and our path to know and feel at-onement with the super Conscious, Creator, Universe, God, The Presence, et al. ©2008, Rev.
